903. ★★★★★

Chinese Foreign Policy Net (Taylor Fravel, Stanford University, Stanford, CA, USA)

(<http://www.stanford.edu/~fravel/chinafp.htm>).

Language: English.

Self description: "Indexes online information sources on Chinese foreign policy by issue area (e.g., arms control) and bilateral relationships (e.g., Sino-Japanese relations). In addition, the site focuses on linking official PRC sources that have become more available in the last 18 months as well as academic reports and policy papers where relevant."

Description: Taylor Fravel is Ph.D. student in Political Science at Stanford Univ. and - together with Michel Oksenberg - gives classes in Chinese Foreign Policy.

Site contents: (1) Overview (Background: Fact Sheets, General Policy Statements, Embassies; News: Internet Services, Newspapers, Chinese Publications, Magazines; Research: Bibliographies, Journals, Think-Tanks); (2) Security (Security Overview, Arms Control and Disarmament, Theater Missile Defense, Technology Transfer, South China Sea); (3) Trade (Trade Overview WTO Intellectual Property Rights); (4) Human Rights (Human Rights Overview, Tibet); (5) Bilateral Relations (Japan, Korean Peninsula, Russia, Southeast Asia, South China Sea, Taiwan, United States, Technology Transfer).

Resource suggested via the Asian Studies WWW Monitor (05 May 1999) by Taylor Fravel (taylor.fravel@stanford.edu).

Added 07 May 1999 (HL)

904. ★★★

The 1990 Institute (USA)

(<http://www.dae.com/1990/>).

Language: English.

Description: "The 1990 Institute is a U.S.-based, action-oriented, non-political think tank dedicated to independent and policy-oriented studies dealing with issues of major importance to China. Research topics include China's economic reform, environmental protection, social ethics, etc."

Contains mainly information about the institute. Some of the articles sponsored by the institute are fully available online.
