Getting JACAR Closer to European Japan Specialists

HIRANO Kenichiro, JACAR

1 . JACAR's Achievement: Professor Ishii's Contributions

JACAR: established in Nov. 2001 documents available for free access: over 20,000,000 images (in 2008) over 30,000,000 images (in 2011) cross archival research across National Archives of Japan, Diplomatic Record Office and National Institute for Defense Studies

2 . Value of Historical Documents

Hirano studying the Manchurian Incident and Manchukuo secret diaries by Captain Katakura of the GS of the Kwantung Army (Katakura diaries) Nakamura (Ogata) Sadako Misuzu Shobo's Gendaishi Shiryo

3. New Arrivals at JACAR

From Diplomatic Record Office 18,471 files (689,658 images) on trade and commerce during the Meiji and Taisho periods (3門(明治・大正期の通商)) on transportation and communication during the early Showa period (F門(昭和戦前期の交通・通

From Library of National Institute for Defense Studies on the demise of the Meiji Emperor and the Taisho Emperor on the incident of a military unit exercising in Mt. Hakkoda

(崩御陸特文書)

(雪中行軍)

4 . Document Search in English

Determining of subject titles, and opening three hundred words essential for keyword search and cross-archival research thesaurus of keywords ex., "Taiheiyo senso" ("Pacific War") and "Daitoa senso" ("Greater East Asian war") English translation of subject title and author's name but no English translation of opening three hundred words and thesaurus

⇒ search in English≠ search in Japaneseonly top page in Chinese and Korean

Problem of translating historical documents and their authenticity translation: tantamount to forcing a particular interpretation trade-off between easy access by non-Japanese speaking users and offering historical documents in original forms

5. An Exercise on the Case of Japan's Withdrawal from the League of Nations

Hirano's ongoing research asking three questions:

- Japanese government's decision making process and Matsuoka Yosuke's role
- 2) reactions of the League of Nations
- 3) possibility of stopping the effects of Manchurian Incident

Shinohara Hatsue's recent book on the League of Nations (篠原初枝『国際聯盟一世界平和への夢と挫折』中公新書、2010)

8 English typescripts of "RECORD OF INTERVIEW" by Drummond himself about his interviews with Matsuoka during January 18 - February 4, 1933

Even now, events were occuring in Jehol which might lead to further incidents. But it was not because of these that the Japanese Delegation wished to pursue to its utmost limit the conciliation procedure. If the Committee really insisted on the Manchukuo point, he feared that conciliation was impossible and that Japan would be forced to withdraw from the League, which he personnally would greatly regret. I replied that I would also regret it, but that I was convinced that the Committee could not meet him on this point. I would, however, report to them the substance of our conversation.

In "RECORD OF INTERVIEW" of February 4, Drummond recorded:

Matsuoka saying "[as long as the League of Nations' committee adheres to its Manchukuo point] conciliation was impossible and that Japan would be forced to withdraw from the League which he personally would greatly regret. I (Drummond) replied that I would also regret it, but that I was convinced that the Committee could not meet him on this point,".
